Check Out These 9 Beautiful Rooms At This Year's Decorator Showcase House

2019 marks the 42nd year for the Decorator Showcase, which this year features 43 of San Francisco's top interior design firms tackling the nine-bedroom Presidio Heights manse known as Le Petit Trianon.

Designers had to take on a variety of spaces besides the usual bedrooms, bathrooms, kitchens, and studies, though this year's house has plenty of all of the above. (And P.S., if you have the means, the house is now on the market as of Thursday for a cool $30 mil.)

Yesterday SFist brought you a look at a downstairs anteroom from designer Scott McMahan — the youngest designer ever selected for the showcase — and today we bring you a selection from elsewhere in the house, starting with this stunning party space.

We are honored to unveil our family room L'Appartement at @sfshowcase today. Our design honors the historic details of this important San Francisco Landmark, "Le Petit Trianon," while incorporating new modern elements for a multigenerational French family. Photos by

One of several areas for sitting and relaxing, this corner room on the main level by designer Heather Hilliard is a study in minimalism, warmth, and restraint.
